A Morning Dog ?

Roberta R.

I'm thinking of a vicious dog
Though I never really knew one
Except for one big yellow cur
That scared me when he growled!
He'd jump and put his paws on me!
I guess a morning dog, he wasn't!
Or maybe he was after food
But it was both of us that howled!

A HISTORY

COPYRIGHT 2009

STUTSMAN
COUNTY FAIR
OPEN CLASS

Once upon a time, in a medium sized house in the country with a slanted roof, lived a girl named Roberta. She shared the house with her parents and seven siblings, the dearest of whom was an older sister named Jody. Although there was no hugging or kissing going on, none of that "lovey dovey" stuff, it was still plain that the members of this family cared for each other.

Roberta remembers her father as a hard working farmer who got up at 4AM every day to go out and care for the cattle and go to the fields. Mom was a hardworking housewife who cared for the many chickens and was always cooking up good things for her family to eat. She also kept the basement clear of salamanders, salting them and carrying them outside! Grandma lived in Gackle, which was quite a distance from Roberta's Spiritwood farm home, and made afghans for everyone, including Roberta who has a blue one.

There was a cat at Roberta's farm whose name was PeeWee. He was quite a special cat even though he was an outside cat and had to survive the enthusiasm of too many dogs and boys!

Some of Roberta's favorite playthings included those dogs and her brother's trucks, which they happily shared and played along.

Rainy days can be boring for a child who can't go outside and play. Roberta remembers sitting around on a rainy day, eating raw potatoes with her brothers and sisters; peeling, eyes, everything!
Playing toys on the floor was another rainy day past time. Mom and dad would sometimes join the children on the floor playing with trucks and tractors.

Common breakfasts at Roberta's house consisted of pancakes and eggs and one of the fondest kitchen memories is that of eating in the kitchen. Farm home kitchens are often large, like this one, with plenty of room for a family table where the air is warm and filled with the aromas of cooking. Eggs were always fresh as chickens were only a stroll away. Speaking of chickens, Roberta's least favorite activity revolved around chickens. She does not have a fondness for the birds, describing them as "yuch", and her least favorite thing in the world to do was to pick feathers during butchering time!

Roberta's bedroom of childhood was a shared room where children slept two to a bed. They would stay awake late at night talking and playing and giggling. They were a close group. Even when the birthdays came around they were close for Roberta and Jody, her senior sister of three years, shared the same birth date!

It has been Roberta's dream to become a millionaire! That may not happen in the dollar sense but if you consider a good sense humor, personality, and friendliness, Roberta is a rich woman. She would like to be remembered as a happy person……. No problem Roberta.

A LOVE OF HORSES

Roberta has loved horses "since before I can remember". Although she never had a horse, and there were no horses on her home land, she had cousins who did have horses and who would send pictures of themselves with their horses.

Of course there were always the westerns on television which Roberta loved to watch. (Further questioning revealed that she loved watching the cowboys as much or more than watching the horses!)

CHAPTER TWO

Adolescence was not a favorite stage of life for Roberta. She was forced to deal with health problems that most other teens didn't, including a seizure disorder that peers didn't understand and were perhaps a little afraid of. They coped by teasing. Roberta was already used to being teased as it began at Lincoln grade school, and continued into junior high. Life can be cruel; thankfully, Roberta also had a coping mechanism in place, her parents and siblings, and a growing sense of humor.

When it comes to Roberta's love life, she plays things close to the chest, not letting too much information leak through. Although she claims not to have had any boy friends, she clarifies this later by saying, "I wouldn't tell if I did". Roberta did tell just a little about one friend named Leroy, obviously a boy, whom she knew while living in Fargo. She and Leroy were friends for seven years after which Roberta moved from Fargo to Dickinson.

Dickinson seems to have opened a whole new world of opportunity for Roberta or, maybe it was Raymond William Nominook who opened that door. Raymond had a farm that beckoned to Roberta or, maybe again, that was Raymond. Anyway, Roberta and Raymond lived on the farm for twenty years. Roberta enjoyed keeping up the house and cooking. Her favorite meal to prepare was pork chops or hamburgers and a big pan of fried potatoes with ice cream for dessert.

The couple didn't go off the farm very often finding it more enjoyable to sit on the porch and listen to the crickets or to the music of the fifties. They demonstrated their affection for each other by exchanging cards and giving gifts of jewelry. Neither Roberta nor Raymond felt like a formal marriage was necessary but Roberta feels that after twenty years, she and Raymond were a couple "married in the heart". It was a sad act of life that MS settled upon Roberta and she felt compelled to move back to Jamestown where she would be near her family but it seems quite clear that Raymond William is still deeply embedded in her heart.

THE STORY OF PEEWEE

When Roberta and her family left the medium sized house, they moved into a trailer. This new home came with its own mouser, a cat named PeeWee. PeeWee lived under the trailer and, as cats often do, she had a batch of kittens! Most of those kittens "left" but one was kept on as a member of Robert's family, a kitten affectionately known as PeeWee Jr.

The family lived in this trailer home for twenty years and when they decided to move on, PeeWee Jr. remained behind to welcome the next tenants.

NATURE VISITS

Deer were common visitors to Roberta's yard. They would come one or two at a time or fifteen at a time! They seemed to know where they could find a tasty snack and "deerly" enjoyed munching their way through mother's garden! Mom wasn't very happy with that but Roberta thought the deer were pretty. She wouldn't dare go outside, however, if there were deer in the vicinity…… their horns were sharp and would hurt if th[illegible] ran into her!!

CHAPTER THREE

Many of us look back on school days as a fun time filled with friends, activities, and maybe a bit of mischief. This is not so for Roberta. Roberta remembers school as "Not so good. I didn't like it because the kids were mean and the teacher didn't do anything". She had no favorite class, although recess was usually OK, and she sometimes pretended to be sick so she could stay home. Alas, the feigned illness never worked and off to school she went!

Roberta was adept at dusting. It may have been her gold medal cleaning activity. She was also involved in other cleaning chores but dusting was her best. Roberta adds that she never had to paint the house although it definitely needed it. She did help care for five younger siblings. "It was a pain in the butt. They were noisy and rowdy and I couldn't discipline them".

On Sunday, Roberta's family would all get dressed up and go to the Wimbledon Lutheran Church. After church, they would go home and eat a good dinner and then spend the afternoon visiting and playing games "like hopscotch".

When Roberta was asked if her own home was different from the home of her parents, she said, "Oh, yes. I don't like flowers so there were no flowers, and there wasn't any grass. I lived with a lazy farmer.
We did know our neighbors and sometimes they would come over and we would eat pizza.
There was some kind of community club and we would meet once a month and discuss things. If someone needed help we would do it."

Roberta is happy that she graduated from high school. She would like to see more of the country, "not just Montana and Oregon". She would have enjoyed driving around to different national parks but couldn't because of epilepsy.

If she could still do one more thing, anything at all, she would get married to a good man and have a big wedding, at least $25,000.00 worth. Right now, the best thing she has to leave her family will be this book.

CHAPTER 4

This is a chapter of favorite things and places that Roberta enjoys or enjoyed through her "so far" life.

Roberta's favorite color to wear is purple. This is also her favorite color to paint, favorite color of sparkles, favorite ribbon color…… you get the idea. Her favorite color to have on the interior walls of her house is blue.

Asked to name her favorite season of the year, Roberta chose two; spring and summer. Her reason being that both are green and have pretty flowers.

Roberta's favorite type of dessert is anything German and her favorite holiday is Easter. Easter is the holiday of eggs, lots and lots of pretty colored eggs, and the activity of coloring the eggs. "I think my favorite holiday is egg day, when everything has to do with eggs! It just happens to be on Easter!"

When talk rolled around to favorite books, we learned that Roberta had no favorite book because she doesn't like to read! She also does not and has not cared for movies so she has no favorite. Roberta says that she never wanted to go, that she would rather just stay home. She does have a favorite TV show, however. Roberta is a fan of "The Young and the Restless".

We all have a favorite time of day and Roberta's is the night time, because it's dark. "I always like the dark". We learned later, however, that she is also scared to be outside in the dark and when she had to go to the outhouse after dark, Roberta would go with her brother or sister.

Roberta's favorite thing to do on a rainy day would be to run in the rain and on a warm sunny day, she would like to find a shady place and sit, maybe sleep. On a cold winter day, Roberta would find a warm and cozy spot and for certain she would sleep!

Her bedroom is Roberta's favorite room in the house because there is a radio there and a television and she can drift off to sleep whenever she wants. Given her choice of music, Roberta would fall asleep to good ol' rock and roll.

If Roberta could have a dream vacation she would go to Florida because it looks so pretty and green and there is a lot of fruit. Asked what she would like to see in Florida Roberta replied, "Men…fronts, not the backs, just the fronts of cute men". Speaking of cute, Roberta's favorite age of children is the baby age, when they are still "so cute".

Roberta has a couple remedies to share. If you have a bad cold, drink cough syrup. It tastes terrible but it works pretty good. If you happen to have a stomach ache, drink Scotch! Asked if she's tried it, Roberta says, "Oh, yeah, and it works good!"

Fishing With Dad

Dad used to take us all fishing. I would help dig the worms. I was a good worm finder but I wouldn't pick them up. I held the can so somebody else could drop them in! Mom would fix a lunch of sandwiches and dad would get all the stuff ready.

We would ride to grandma's place because there was a lake near there. Dad had a row boat and he would row us out into the lake. He didn't want any of us kids to touch the oars and that was OK with me because I liked to ride. Dad would take all 8 of us out in the boat; mom stayed home. After a while I started staying with grandma.

Dad would bait the hooks, especially mine because I wouldn't touch the worms. He didn't do well with the sight of blood so mom had to clean the fish, usually walleyes. She used an electric knife so it went fast. Then she would fry them and we'd all eat fresh fried fish with cole slaw and baked apples. Ummm, it was good!

CHAPTER 5
Memorable Events

Many things happen throughout a lifetime. In this chapter Roberta will share some of those things that stand out in her mind.

Historically speaking, Roberta provided this list of events that she recalls with differing clarity but she considers all important to life.

Floods
The JFK assassination
The first man on the moon
Viet Nam
Computers
Television
Running water
The big blizzard in 1967
The space station
Collapse of the World Trade Center Towers
Oil furnaces
Indoor toilets
Berlin wall

The cold war with the USSR
Sputnik
The Russian dog in space
Olympic hostages
Black power and LA Riots
Alaska earthquake
Alaska and Hawaii becoming states
The Beatles coming to the US
Elvis on the Ed Sullivan Show
President Nixon's resignation

"There were probably lots more but I don't remember them all right now. What I remember as most important when I was a kid was water. Dad knew a water witch and he came to our place. He used a forked stick and walked all over our yard until the stick pointed to water. The men dug where he said to and they found water and we got a well. Then we could have running water in the house and that was a good thing."

"The most memorable family event was mom having more babies. She had eight babies and I was right in the middle. It was a big event when mom had a new baby because we were all there with her. We all stayed home; all us kids and mom and dad, and the babies were born there at home."

"The most memorable event in my adult life happened when I was driving. Mom was with me, teaching me how to drive. I'm not sure why she did that, I 'spose I asked her to let me drive and she did. Anyway, I didn't do so good because I drove into the ditch and blew out all four tires. We weren't hurt we just sat there and stared at each other and waited for dad to come and get us out. That was the first time I drove the car. Oh, and it was also the last time I drove the car. But it was memorable!"

"I also remember when we got a freezer. We had three freezers and I think they were all full of cows, holstiens. The whole cow was in there! We ate cured meats too like smoked herring and some lutefisk, ugh! We had our own taters and other garden stuff and mom canned."

CHAPTER 6
Three Days

This chapter is dedicated to ordinary days. Given all the circumstances of each time period, Roberta will share a typical day of childhood, young adulthood and now.

"When I was a kid, I had chores to do. Everybody had chores to do. I would get up at about 6 in the morning so I could do my chores, eat breakfast, and then get on the bus. I would help feed the chickens and the pigs every morning and sometimes I would do it myself. Then we all sat down to breakfast. We would have eggs and bacon, ummm, it was so good. After that I would get on the school bus and go to school.

After school, we would all play outside, running around the yard. We had a rope swing that hung from a tree and we would swing. I never played with dolls or dishes I liked trucks and tractors. My sister would catch snakes and drop them down the toilet and then I was scared to sit on the hole because the snake might bite me in the butt!

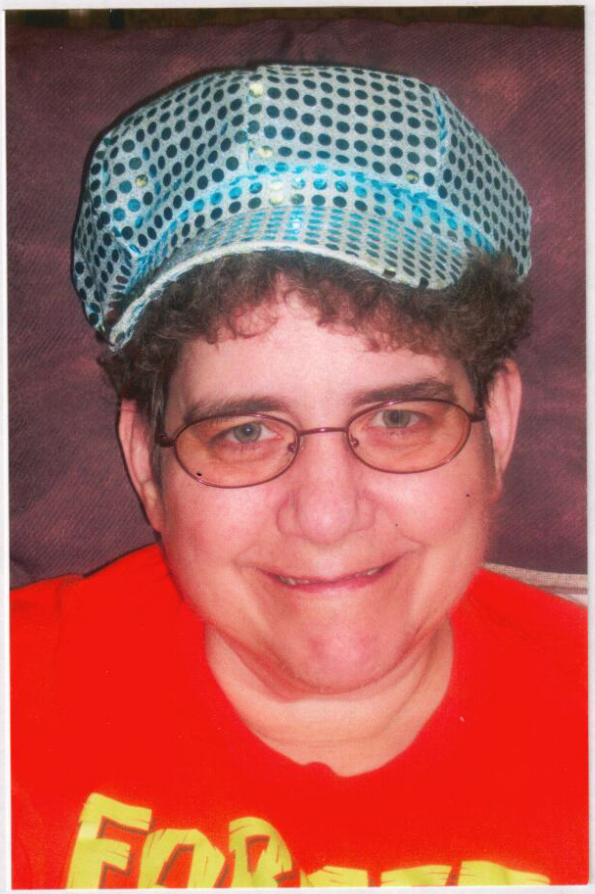
Mom was very patient with us, oh yeah. We must have driven her crazy! One time we started playing in mud and before long we were throwing it at each other! It was a lot of fun but we got paddled for that one, just with her hand so it didn't hurt. After supper there was no dish duty. We would all go outside and play and mom would do the dishes. There was no TV or radio or games so we just always played outside.

Speaking of childhood memories, Roberta said, "I remember I would go outside when I was six or seven and I would pick flowers for mom. They were lilacs and I would put them all in one big bouquet for her. Boy, she loved that. Mom would always put them in the middle of the table and sometimes, I remember, little bugs would jump out on the table. We thought that was funny! We always kept mom busy with more flowers. If she didn't have a vase, she put water in a Ball jar. Those lilacs grew right behind the garage at our first house. There weren't any at any of our other houses."

"I remember I made something for my dad once. It was a little frog. He stood up (the frog) so it sat by dad's desk. I think it was made of clay and I made it at school. It was special to dad I think because he still has it. He's moved it from house to house. I didn't know how to make anything else so I made a frog."

"Mom is half German and dad is half German. They spoke German at home and so did grandma who taught me the dirty words. Grandma and mom would make kuchen, especially prune, with real cream. They also made knoepfla with sauage and lubkuchen, which is a Christmas cookie. Grandma taught me how to say it and she used to make such a big batch. They were so good!



As a young adult, Roberta lived with Raymond. They shared a house in Fairfield, which is near Belfield which is near Medora. Roberta says, "I would get up around noon because I didn't have anything to get up for. Then I would fix something to eat and maybe just play around for awhile. I would watch for the mailman and then I would go get the mail.

When asked what they did for enjoyment or entertainment, Roberta says, "We would sit in the back yard". Asked if they read books or listened to music, she replied, "Yuk to books and music".

"Sometimes we would go to the school yard next door and play on the swings. In the evening I would cook supper. Mostly I cooked potatoes and meat. No veggies or salads; I didn't like them. Raymond drank milk and I drank pop."

"We would watch some TV in the evenings and once in a while we would go into Belfield to Trapper's Inn. It was a restaurant. We didn't go too often because we didn't have any money"!

Day, NOW;

Roberta sleeps in these days, getting up around noon, because she says, "I want to get up at noon. I've never eaten breakfast and I don't do it now. It weighs heavy. I eat dinner most of the time, especially if it's pizza. Ummm. I love pizza dunked in Ranch dressing with pepper and strawberries and sugar. I also like doughnuts and juice for breakfast."

"At noon I help pass the mail for two neighborhoods and every other day I also go to therapy. In therapy they stretch my arms and legs, then they put a ball between my knees for 5 minutes. Oh, and I also use the hand gripper."

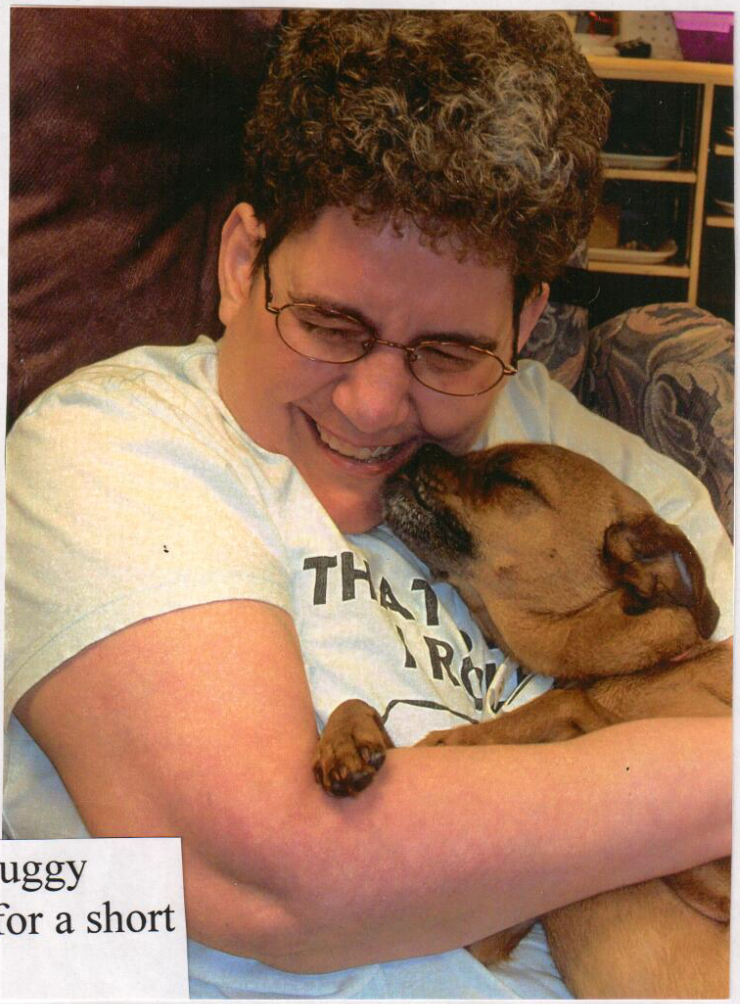
"Depending on the day, I might go to Bingo. I like Bongo and play each Monday and Thursday. Sometimes I win $0.25 and twice I won $5.00! After bingo is social hour but I usually don't stay. I go to the café to watch them play cards. On Mondays I get a manicure."

Friday I go to Happy Hour where I drink coconut rum and pineapple juice. Ummm, it's good! Sometimes I have Scotch but not so much any more."

"I'm also working on a project for the county fair that has 25 parts that I have to sand and then paint. It's going to be a stack of twelve stars, one for each month. I play Skip-Bo in the café whenever somebody wants to play. Usually it's Betty. I like to play the Grain Game too with Betty so I can slam her and win. Other games I like are "Bird Memory", Yahtzee, and Shut-the-Box."

"Once a month I go to a ladies group called "Tea Buds" and I go to Life Writing after supper sometimes. That's where I'm writing this book. I like breakfast club, ummmmm. It's so good. Last time we had bacon, eggs, and toast. I go to all kinds of craft activities, and Morsels and More. I go to the Barthel Room for movies and popcorn, hangman, and It's Puzzling."

"I usually go to church twice a week and to the big birthday party. I'm seldom in my room and that's OK. My days are mostly pretty good. I would like to paint more and do more wood stuff. Once in a while I have a crappy day but I can't do anything about it.. I get ready for bed at 8:30 and once I'm in bed I watch TV until I fall asleep."



Roberta with Puggy
An AMV dog for a short time in 2012.

CHAPTER 7
MEMORABLE WEATHER

I remember a big thunderstorm. The sky got really black, like nighttime. I was already at school but they let school out early. I think they thought there might be a tornado because the sky was all funny.

All us kids got on the school bus and started for home. But, the bus went off the road and into a ditch. It was a little scary but it happened so fast that I didn't have time to think about anything. The bus didn't tip over but the driver couldn't get it out so we had to sit there.

The school sent another bus to get us. While we waited, we got all our homework done!

I remember another time when a thunderstorm came. It came fast. One minute the sky was blue and the next minute the sky was all black. Mom had done the laundry and had the clothes hanging out on the line. The clouds came in so fast that we didn't have a chance to get the clothes in so they got all wet and twisted up in the wind. Mom had to do the laundry all over again.

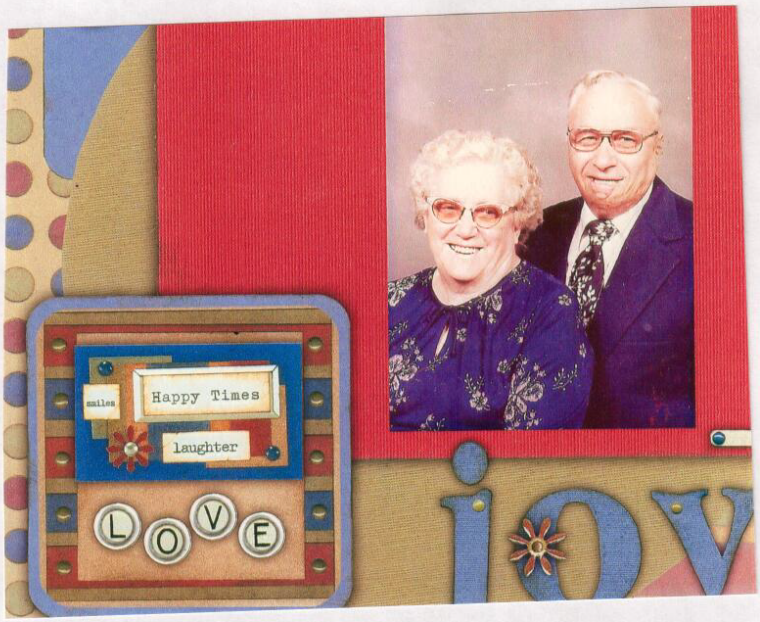
There was a tornado too! This was a different time but it was a big storm too. The tornado blew down out barn. We were all in the house, stuck together in the basement.; eight kids stuck together in the basement! That wasn't fun.



ROBERTA TALKS ABOUT BROTHERS AND SISTERS

"I called him Porcupine then and I still do," Roberta says of her brother Byron. "Sometimes I would pull his hair just so I could see him cry. Then he would pull mine! Sometimes we would even bite and pinch each other. We liked each other but we did it anyway, just for kicks! We are both big now and I still like him. My sister calls him PeeWee but I call him Porcupine".

Gwen was my closest sister. She was eighteen years old when she died and I was nineteen. We did everything together. We would run around the farm together, swing on the swings I the yard, and we shared a room. Gwen is the sister who dropped the snakes down the outside toilet!"

"She started getting seizures when she was thirteen. We were all home that first time when it happened. Mom and dad called an ambulance for her. I ran to mom's bedroom and hid in the closet. The only one who could get me to come out was my cousin Marge. We were in the same grade. Gwen died during a seizure when she was eighteen. I thought it would happen to me too but I was on pills for seizures since I was thirteen. It was very scary. Mom, Robert, me, Lori, and Byron all have seizures. Dad, Mark, Jodi, and Audrey don't have seizures so they are the only ones who can drive."

"My sister Jodi is three years older than me and we have the same birthday. She likes chocolate cake and I like angel food so mom had to always make two cakes."

"I used to get mad and tell her off and then Jodi would go and get mom. We shared a room but we didn't do as much together as me and Gwen. Jodi could drive but I didn't go for rides with her much because she couldn't drive dad's car. She drove trucks, tractors, and combines and worked hard in the field."

"Jodi had lots of boyfriends and was married….twice…and divorced. She has two

His wife's name is Rhonda! Leo Tonya

Emma Augusta Fredricka Sharf Reeves (grandma) Wm George

kids, Audrey and Jeremiah. J
Fargo and works in a bank."

"Mark is the oldest in ou Valley City and works on the married and has two kids, Mi
. His wife's name is

"Mark was a good older brother except he busted my leg once on a motorcycle. I think I was 13 or 14 at the time. Dad had motorcycles and Mark used to use one when he went for the mail or to check on the cows. I rode with him one day and we were going in the ditch; I'm not sure why. The motorcycle tipped over and I broke my leg but it was a fun ride anyway."

"Mark didn't like working in the fields so he left home pretty fast to find a different job. I don't get to see him very often. Mom said when he was born, he had long curly hair but it didn't stay curly."

Back Row: Jody, Roberta, Mark

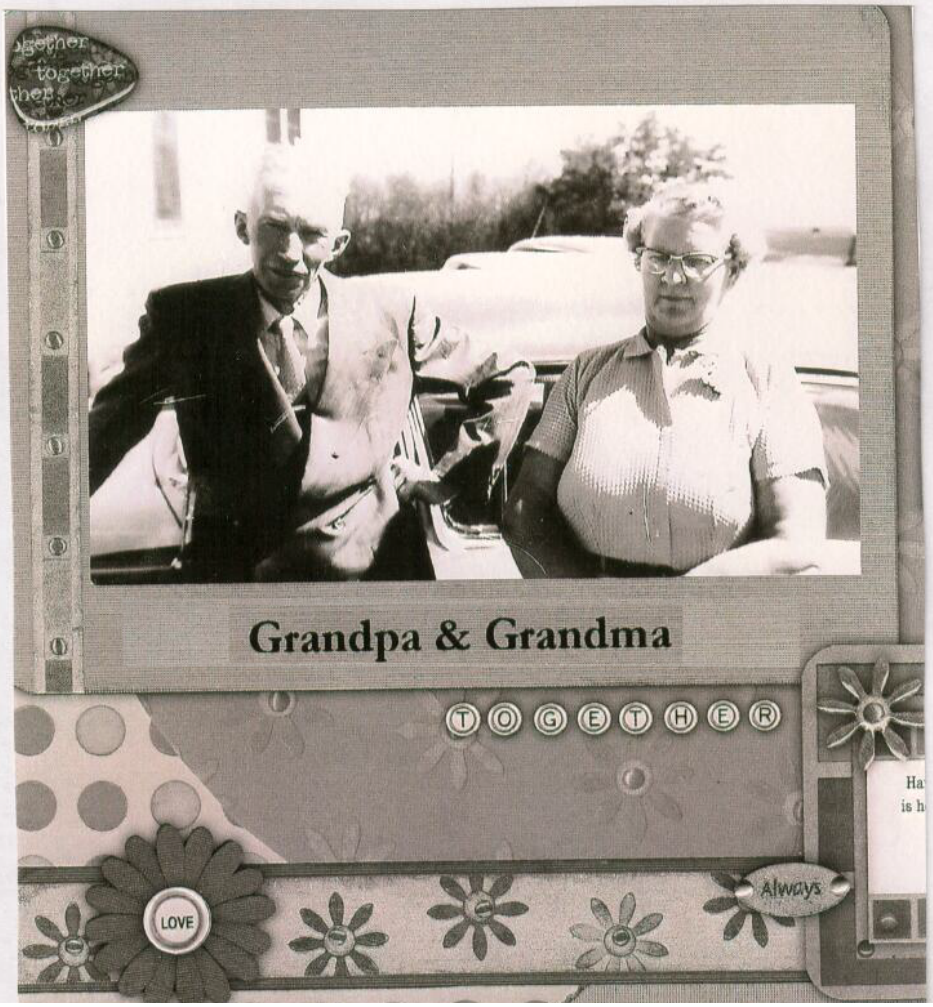
"Lori is younger than me. I had to baby sit her and she cried a lot. She was a good sister though and we played together a lot. We had a huge coloring book and we would color together. We had to color every single page. When we got old enough, we would go fishing, me, Lori, Byron, and dad. We would walk down to the slough and catch fish. Mom would clean them because if dad cleaned fish he would throw up!"

"Lori went all the way through the twelfth grade and we all went to her graduation. She left home then and got a job in Valley City. Lori has seizures too but she still went off to try stuff. When mom and dad go to Valley City to get Lori, then I get to se her."

"I call my sister Audrey "Big Aud" because Jodi has a girl named Audrey too. Audrey is younger than me so I baby sat her too. I had Lori, Byron, and Audrey all bawling their heads off! Audrey would color with me and Lori evn though she didn't like to color. She did it anyway."

"Audrey liked the man who worked for us and that made dad mad because he was forty years old and Audrey was only eighteen or nineteen. Audrey never got seizures so she could go places and she went to California with that guy. They weren't married or anything; they just went to California. Audrey never got married. She lives in Jamestown now and works in a bank, Community First, I think. She drives a pick-up and lives in an apartment. I don't see Audrey too much but she came to the family picnic this summer." (2012)



"Robert is one year older than me. He had seizures too but we all played together. He was a nice brother, helping me out. He went twelve grades and we all went to his graduation in Grafton. After he graduated they had no work for him so he came back and went to live in a group home in Mandan. He's still there and I see him about once a year."

Roberta on Fireworks

"I was walking with my sister at the fairgrounds. Some kids came up behind us and set off some fireworks! They thought it was funny but it wasn't. I jumped and screamed and my sister did too a little bit. When we turned to look at who done it, There was nobody there.

My brother Byron liked to shoot off Fireworks but the rest of us didn't. We Didn't like them but Byron did."

BILL

By Roberta

My dad wasn't here for Christmas.
They tell me he's too thin.
My dad's name is Bill,
And I remember how he made things.
He made a snow blower once,
A big one he could ride on.
He cleared the snow from the bus route,
And cleaned our road and yard.
I think it was a grain wagon,
That dad made for the field.
And he made a sprayer from an old truck,
So he could kill the weeds.
My dad was always making things,
He'd drill and weld and pound.
It's still there I think, on the farm,
But my dad isn't, he's in town.

REMEMBERING GRANDMA

Roberta

I like to go to grandma's cause
She plays games with me
The family gathers in little groups
For Skip-Bo, rummy, or Sorry
Grandma showed me how so I usually beat them all
Playing games at grandma's was always such a ball

At Christmas time we'd all be there and
We'd talk and laugh and eat
And all the food was really good ,
Liebkuchen my favorite treat

One year a pot exploded and the scalloped potatoes flew!
They landed on the ceiling,
The tomatoes had been there too!
I like to go to grandma's house
I like remembering when, and
It would be a super Christmas
If I could go again

A Morning Dog ?

Roberta R.

I'm thinking of a vicious dog
Though I never really knew one
Except for one big yellow cur
That scared me when he growled!
He'd jump and put his paws on me!
I guess a morning dog, he wasn't!
Or maybe he was after food
But it was both of us that howled!
